

Corey Clarke

Full Stack Developer

👤 Profile

I am a passionate and enthusiastic Full-stack developer that specializes using React and Node. My expertise lies in translating designs into fully functional websites/applications while utilizing my development skills to enhance and customize their features. From a young age I fell in love with the world of technology and embarked on my journey of knowledge and growth within this field.

Very strong communicator derived from my previous experience in retail which has also shown me how to work fast-paced and under pressure.

In my leisure time I enjoy studying languages and attending the gym.
